JAPANESE ARMY IS FIGHTING THREE WARS AT THE SAME TIME!

The Imperial Japanese Army is fighting three wars simultaneously: (1) To establish a military dictatorship in Japan; (2) To destroy Chinese national life and convert China into a colony; (3) To drive Americans and Europeans and their interests out of Asia.

Of the three objectives, the first practically has been attained. With three generals and two admirals in the new Cabinet and legislative machinery already enacted, the warlords are now in control of their own country. The second objective—enslavement of China—has only been partially put into effect. The third objective, elimination of Occidentals and their interests, is also in process of consummation.

ELIMINATION OF FOREIGNERS

This week's issue of The China Weekly Review contains the second instalment of a remarkable disclosure of the Japanese military plot to drive foreigners and their interest out of Asia. Much of the material was obtained from original, and in some cases, confidential, Japanese sources. The remainder came from neutral sources. The information is authoritative and startling. The circulation of the first instalment in our issue of May 28 attracted general attention. The publication of the complete report will undoubtedly influence diplomatic policies of Western nations.

If you have anything to do with the production or sale of any of the following articles—Tobacco, Oil, Wool, Cement, Coal, Textile Mills and Cotton, Shipping—you should read this issue of The Review.

The issue of June 4 also contains the first of a series of two important articles dealing with Chinese finance which was written by Dr. Arthur N. Young, an outstanding authority on the subject. Also, there are several other articles of general interest dealing with the Japanese Cabinet crisis, development of industries in Central China, the American drive for China relief funds, an article about Sinkiang, the recall of the German advisers, etc.

If you are not a subscriber, you may obtain a copy of this week's issue of The Review from the nearest news-stand or book-store. Last week's issue, if already sold out at the news-stands, may be obtained from the office of publication. It's always better to place a subscription and have the paper delivered regularly to your home or office. The rate is $12 a year, including postage. By air-mail to Hankow and Central China the rate is $28. Send orders to the undersigned.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Radio Reception:
Another Question Asked

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Both FILLIPE and PROVIDENCE, SHANGHAI have answered my query regarding reception problems and possibilities in Shanghai as regards Europe so ably that I am tempted to write once more with yet another question. It seems fairly agreed, I think, that with the modern all-wave receiver Berlin, London and the other capitals of the world can be picked up in Shanghai for the greater part of the day with all the volume and clarity that could be desired. But what about North America?

There are, I know, a very large number of short-wave radio stations in both Canada and the United States, but, save for the 6 a.m. news broadcast from Schenectady, which is occasionally picked up locally, few of these are ever heard here and even then it is looked on as something in the way of "freak reception." The small 5-kilowatt station LRU, of Buenos Aires, on the other hand, comes over my receiver in the early evenings in splendid fashion.

It seems to me that if Buenos Aires can be picked up in Shanghai, several of the much more powerful North American stations should also be received. But are they heard here regularly? No, though why I cannot for the life of me understand, especially as the amateur stations, even as far away as Florida, are frequently heard in Shanghai.

INTERESTED.

Shanghai, June 5.

Lawn Bowls:
Why Is It So Popular?

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Lawn Bowls! Can anyone, far or near, enlighten me as to why the game of Lawn Bowls, is getting an ever increasing number of followers? The game is positively, and without a doubt, dull to watch and must be worse, participating. Stamina, which is the essential requirement and factor, playing the major part in most outdoor games, is of no value whatsoever in this sport.

Where is the thrill, where is the excitement; unless it's the "cooling system," they enjoy between turns. In conclusion, may I suggest a cure for all afflicted with strained hearts: play lawn bowls.

Pentecost and Revelation

Sermon Preached at Ohel Rachel Synagogue By Rev. Mendel Brown, B.A.

THERE is no festival in the Jewish Calendar which makes a more serious appeal to Jewish thought than that of Pentecost. Though coming down to us from past centuries, it bears a special significance today, for it proclaims to a world, in which doubters are multiplying, the truths of the Divine Revelation. It recalls the story of Sinai, enshrined in holy writ. If one were casting about for a proof of the Divine origin of Revelation there would be no need to go beyond the fact that thirty-three centuries ago, when the world was steeped in barbarism, and moral obligation was an idea scarcely recognized by the majority of men, the foundations of religion and morality were laid; and laid so solidly and truly that civilized society rests on them today with no other basis for its security.

The Ten Commandments stand out as the bedrock on which the whole edifice of human duty has reared itself. Like the granite stone on the tables of which it was engraven the Decalogue endures from age to age. Its laws are as binding today as when they were first uttered to the people who accepted them. Surviving all other ancient codes, they are the permanent revelation of the will of God. The external signs of awe and solemnity amidst which they were announced attested their supreme importance for individual and social welfare. The thunders and lightnings of Sinai made manifest the Divine majesty of law and order, the serious consequences that follow on their infringement. Elementary, rudimentary, even, as they may seem to some minds, mankind has not even yet learnt to render them whole-hearted obedience. God is still worshipped under the form of images.

His name is often taken in vain. Sabbath observance and filial reverence are the exception rather than the rule of modern life. Murder, adultery, and theft are not unknown to our civilization, while false testimony is a sin from which few persons are free, and that of covetousness is so general that it scarcely attracts notice.

The Decalogue

Yet the authority of the Decalogue is being increasingly recognized by our age. It is stamped clear on the principles of law and order which form the frame work of modern society. How true are the words of our Sages! "Had Israel not accepted the Law, the world would have been turned into chaos."

An event of such fundamental significance as the revelation to mankind of the ideals of conduct deserves to be commemorated from year to year with due solemnity. Not Israel only, but the whole world would be spiritually benefited by calling to mind the circumstances that gave birth to a code of duty which is as universal as it is imperishable. One day, when the practice of religion is more uniform, the world at large will come to hold such a celebration. Meanwhile, it is the privilege of Israel, to whom the revelation was made in the first instance, to bear witness each year to the Divine origin of the Decalogue by a feast at once solemn and joyous. Pious men spend the entire night of Shaboouth in prayer and study, and do not grudge the sacrifice of sleep on so memorable an anniversary. The rank and file of the less zealous celebrate the feast in simpler fashion. But no Jew can join in such a celebration without giving some thought to the Decalogue, its world-wide significance, the influence it has exerted on the progress of civilization, the message with which it is charged to our own and every generation of the human race.

Revelation of Himself

The words spoken at Sinai were direct utterances of God to His people Israel, and they constituted a revelation of Himself. They are the foundation of all family and national morality. The number of these utterances is ten, which represents the idea of completness, ten being the numerals that are counted on the fingers of both hands. In the Decalogue we have a complete guide to human conduct, the sum and substance of our duty to God and man. The law of God, as the Psalmist tells us, is perfect, it lacks nothing; it is whole and complete. Anyone obeying these Ten Words in their entirety would be perfect, he would neither fail in his duty to God nor to man. For the Decalogue is made up of two halves. The one regulates our duty to Heaven and those who stand in the place of Heaven; the other our relations towards our fellow-man. Duty to God comes first, and prepares the way for the discharge of our obligations to society. Taken together, the two tables of the covenant comprise the root principles of religion and morality, of piety and justice. The underlying idea of the one table is reverence, that of the other is righteousness.

Festival of Pentecost

On this Festival of Pentecost when we of the House of Israel celebrate the giving of the Torah we think, alas, of the prevalent chaos and darkness of the world which strives to live in defiance of the word of God. The terrible evils which beset our people and which mar the progress of the world are the direct outcome of disobedience and defiance of the laws which should govern men and nations. Murder, theft, jealousy, false witness are the ruling powers which seek to dethrone God. The return to the age of barbarity in benighted lands is another evidence of the dire need in the world today of a recognition of Divine Revelation. Still we must not despair. Dark clouds may hang over the human horizon, thick mists may envelop the top of Sinai, but God's revelation is everlasting and will ever remain the heritage of man. The clouds must disappear again, and the mists disperse, and it is our duty as sons of Israel, during every time of darkness and of gloom, to point to the path of light and brilliance, to point to Mount Sinai, to point to the Tables of Stone, from both sides of which the Ten Words were visible. The echo of the Ten Words must still reverberate throughout the Universe, and no din of battle, or roar of cannon will ever drown that echo. The unity of God, the holiness of man and his work, the love of parent and child, the friendship of man and man, the purity of man's heart, will remain the everlasting ideals of Israel and humanity. It is our duty to continue to keep these ideals undimmed before the eyes of the world. The day must come when these ideals will be realized, and another echo will be heard throughout the Universe, the echo of the words that shall be uttered by the whole of mankind "All that the Lord hath spoken, we will do. We shall be observant and obedient."

Lesson Sermon
First Church of Christ, Scientist

"God the only cause and creator" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on June 5, throughout the world. Golden text: Revelation 4: 11. Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honour and power: for Thou hast created all things, and for Thy pleasure they are and were created.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson Sermon are the following from the Bible: Psalms 50: 1, and 2. The mighty God, even the Lord, hath spoken and called the earth from the rising of the sun unto the going down thereof. Out of the perfection of beauty, God hath shined.

Sixty Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS," OF JUNE 6, 1878

We learn that the stand of Messrs. Sutton & Sons, the Queen's Seedsman by special warrant to H.R.H. the Prince of Wales, at the Paris Exhibition will be one of the most exhaustive displays of horticultural and agricultural produce ever brought together. Taking advantage of the occasion of what will be the most wonderful "world's fair" ever held, and of their high position as seedsmen to His Royal Highness the President of the Royal Commission, Messrs. Sutton have been actively engaged for nearly twelve months in preparing their elaborate stand of 55 feet in length. We understand that there are more than 2,000 models from nature of the principal kinds of agricultural and horticultural plants and roots, in addition to nearly 500 specimens of permanent pasture grasses, as well as 200 samples of seeds. The display occupies a large portion of one of the extensive buildings erected at the special desire of H.R.H. the President for illustrations of English agriculture, and it is already in such a forward condition that it will be quite ready for his private view. Not only inside are Messrs. Sutton making such an extensive display, but in the exhibition grounds nearly three acres have been sown with Messrs. Sutton's grass seeds, which are now rapidly forming a beautiful sward. In addition to grass seeds, Messrs. Sutton have supplied an endless quantity and variety of flower seeds, which will be transplanted during the summer in various parts of the exhibition grounds, and a most brilliant effect is anticipated.

Viscount Greenwood, who has just resigned the post of treasurer of the Conservative Party, was probably the breeziest platform speaker of his time. Born and educated in Canada, he came here in the early years of the century, was called to the Bar, and speedily got a good practice in cases before the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, which hears Empire appeals. Chief Secretary for Ireland in the Coalition Government during the "Black and Tan" period, he was absolutely fearless, but he was really behind the agreement which ended in the setting up of the Free State.

WOMAN'S PAGE

A Shanghai Letter

By Hester

The general concern regarding world events gave place last week for a space—at least to English people, to the all-absorbing interest of the Derby. Almost every labourer in England would have a half-crown on his favourite, and doubtless the doings of Dictators would concern the average man in the street less than would the form of his pick of the "gees."

It is twenty-five years since Miss Emily Davidson flung herself at the King's horse, Amner, at Tattenham Corner, and by so doing, lost her life and gave publicity to the cause of women's suffrage. A useless, stupid sacrifice many of us may think now, and even at the time it roused so much indignation that it is doubtful if the cause gained anything but adverse criticism. However, one can note how Time changes one's views. I remember when this happened, I regarded Miss Davidson as a heroine and shed youthful tears at her brave, untimely end. Today I would feel sorrier for Amner's jockey.

It has been said of the Englishman that he would rather win the Derby than immortality, but then, many things are said. Certainly the winner is always regarded as something of a national hero and while his honours are fresh the interest in him precedes that extended to Royalty. It is given to few men to realize all their ambitions but apparently the late Lord Rosebery was one of the few. It was said that he had in life three great ambitions: to win the Derby, to marry an heiress, and to be Prime Minister of England. I cannot say if the wishes existed in his heart in the order named, but he certainly attained all three, winning the Derby three times. Those were the days!

Now, one supposes, many who have lost large sums at Epsom will promptly go back home and complain about the extra sixpence on income tax and speaking of this comes a story from home.

* * *

Simon's Tanner

A north country Councillor declared that he was not a bit surprised about the extra sixpence on income tax, in fact he had expected it, for mention was made of it in the Bible. To his listener's expressed surprise he explained: "Look at the four last words in the 43rd. verse of the ninth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, and you'll see how I knew there was going to be an increase."

With that he left his friend who promptly went home and looked up the chapter referred to. These he read, in the four last words mentioned: "One Simon a tanner." They can get a laugh in some spots even out of an increase in taxation.

The Gentle Rise

For ourselves we are getting concerned about the extra cost of necessary commodities though for a war-ridden land our food prices are not so high as they might have been. Those gentle little notices, though, in our news sheets seem harmless and insignificent in themselves, but they have a way of piling on the agony to the cost of living, and we find at the end of the month that these insignificant trifles amount to quite a considerable sum.

In the meantime, after filling the family pool which seems to get deeper, Charity has to keep on watering the ground, for our responsibilities towards homeless victims seem to diminish not at all.

It is noticeable that, given food and shelter, most of our refugees seem to be contented enough. A more highly strung race might have given us a good deal more trouble.

Following upon her observations of camp occupants Mrs. A. W. Sherriff gives us some interesting information. At the Women's Institute she remarked: "Refugees in camps—in one way or another—have been surveyed and evaluated and charted and analysed and synthesized and integrated, as it were, down to the last rice bowl....In the general rank and file of the camps in Shanghai the degree of mental distress and blighted mental and spiritual health is far less acute than it is among the young educated people of this land, who are most desperate sufferers, and whose mental needs are keenest."

Arising out of our present trouble Mrs. Sherriff has noted some of the effects upon the refugees, not all of which are adverse, and gives her findings as follows:

1.—During recent months several tens of thousands of adults and an even larger number of children, who might otherwise not have been in school, have been under daily instruction in these camps.

2.—With the crowding together of people from "everywhere" and representing varying economic planes, and more than fifty different crafts, enlarged horizons and new appreciation of unity in diversity, plus something of a meaning of geography has come to thousands, who knew only their own doorway before.

3.—A new understanding of and acquaintance with Westerners has been the lot of hosts of folk....One elderly woman in a camp remarked that she had seen foreigners all her life but that she had always looked at them as from a distance. "Now," she said, "I find that they are just like us."

One would gather that the Chinese have built up a sort of resistance against trouble, and one cannot help but reflect that a life-time's application to living in the simplest manner, n demanding the minimum of comforts, assists one when distresses arise: the drop is not so great, and, if the world is going the way some of our pessimists declare, it might be well if we learned to live without so many of the trimmings which have become a part of our modern life.

Forlorn Girls

One aspect of our local situation is most disturbing and that is the position of girls in their teens and early twenties who are out of positions and for whom there seems little hope of finding work in the near future. One firm here which advertised for an expert stenotypist received 100 applications a day for the first few days. Other firms who have advertised low salaried positions for beginners have received as many as 40 or 50 applications a day. An executive in Shanghai who has many girls of the untrained order seeking her aid states that a great number of the unemployed are unemployable; they do not speak English very well, while writing and spelling are impossible. It makes one believe that there are worse things in Shanghai than being a good amah with a comfortable $30 or $35 a month plus good living quarters and lots of perks.

The fact that the unemployable are ill equipped for business life only adds to their sorry predicament and incidentally to the responsibilities of the community, and one feels that so soon as we can attend to others than "war" victims one of the first problems to be tackled must be that of the working girl. True, for the time being we have our excellent private charities, and these are not of the cold order, but the bread of charity, though sustaining for a time, and by no means to be despised, lies heavy on the constitution and is not to be recommended as a permanent diet.

In scanning the advertisements last week to note what was offering to the many girls out of work one was intrigued to learn that a certain firm advertised for a secretary and demanded that, in addition to excellent office qualities, the applicant must be of prepossessing appearance. It is going to be hard lines if women workers, have got to be good looking as well as good at their jobs. It is seldom that all the gifts are showered upon one individual, and though the fairy story heroine was always "as good as she was beautiful" yet she had never been tried out in a business house, and it has been the popular belief that the raging beauties did not invariably make the best office assistants. However, be that as it may, with regard to the job in question it is safe to say that any Shanghai girl who is lovely to look at, outstanding at her work, has social poise, is good at athletics, graceful on the dance floor, has wit and charm above the average and can mix a good cocktail will stand a chance of acquiring this desirable post. Let us hope that the salary offered is commensurate with the qualities demanded.

Matters Social

The following announcement taken from the "Sydney Morning Herald," goes to show what a pleasant time one of Shanghai's girls is having during a holiday spent in Australia:

Miss Doreen Bowden, daughter of the Australian Government Trade Commissioner in China, Mr. T. G. Bowden, and Mrs. Bowden, was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hoskings, Misses Heather McLeod, Mollie Cox, Nancy Goldfinch, and Messrs. John Goldfinch, Peter and Geoffrey Sale, and Russell Fielder, at a party at Romano's last night. With her parents, Miss Bowden will leave for Melbourne next Tuesday, and will return to Sydney before their departure for Shanghai in May.

American residents in China with friends in Court circles in London may like to hear about presentations of their fellow nationals at the First Court held by the King and Queen on May 11.

We read that Mrs. Kennedy, wife of the American Ambassador presented the following, some of whom are well known to friends in China:

Mrs. Douglas Jenkins (wife of the American Consul General in London), Mrs. Leslie Ammerton Davis (wife of the American Consul General at Glasgow), Mrs. Warren Sewell Lockwood (wife of an Assistant Trade Commissioner at the American Embassy in London), Miss Rosemary Kennedy and Miss Kathleen Kennedy

Zip-fastened is this fresh cotton morning frock. The front opening is a generous one and the entry into the dress is consequently easy.

(daughters of the Ambassador and Mrs. Kennedy), Miss Virginia Lee Howard (daughter of Mr. Charles Raymond Howard, Assistant Treasury Attaché at the American Embassy in London, and Mrs. Howard), Miss Rosamond Harris Siedel (daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Siedel).

The Ambassador was accompanied by the members of his staff and their ladies.

It will be recalled that the Ambassador wrote to Senator Lodge expressing the opinion that Court presentations made through the American Embassy should be limited to "the families of American officials in this country and to members of the immediate families of those Americans who are not merely visiting England but are domiciled here for reasons which would justify the Ambassador in supporting their application."

Included in an attractive programme will be a pageant showing the high spots in the history of the Y.W.C.A. here in Shanghai.

How to Make Throat Line Young

Start Up Circulation then Exercise Muscles

It takes exercise to keep the throat muscles full and round, says Miss Ida Jean Kain, American health and beauty expert. The throat-line gets so little exercise that it is easy to understand why firm contours fall into folds and creases or assume a heavy, pudgy appearance. You will have to twist that pretty neck and turn and stretch these muscles to keep a slim, chiselled line.

Improve Circulation

You want to do everything that will increase circulation in the throat area, so begin with applications of hot and cold water, then use cream, and back these measures with exercise. First, wring a towel out of hot water and fold it about the throat. Leave for a second and repeat. Now, do the same thing with a cold towel. These preliminary measures help to stir up the circulation. Pat on a warm oil, tissue or nourishing cream, massaging well into the skin from the base of the neck upward to the jawline.

Then Exercise

All this is preparatory to special chin and neck exercise. One of the simplest and most effective is to blow up a toy balloon, large size. Make a great to-do about it and really use your muscles. Keep huffing and puffing until the balloon is stretched to the breaking point. The balloon exercise not only uses the muscles of the throat, but is the best eradicator we know of those parenthetical nose and mouth lines.

Another stunt is to chew like a bunny. Toss your head back, draw your chin up and turn the head from side to side slowly, chewing like a bunny. Turn the head as far to the sides as you can and chew vigorously, keeping the chin high in the air.

Queen Mary has chosen hors d'oeuvres or sherry party sets. A set of six little dishes is fitted into an oak tray with a tiny painting of a fish or vegetable on each dish.

What People Have Said—

Sigrid Undset (authoress): "I was a typist for ten years and three months. The three months were endurable because everything was new to me, but the rest was dreadful."

M. Leon Blum (French politician): "I should put the average age for marriage at about thirty for women and thirty-five for men."

Walter Lippmann (American journalist): "The careers of several women politicians have done much to destroy the illusion that women have a special mission to redeem politics."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt: "Women bear pain better than men, and understand human suffering better than men, and if given the chance they will work harder to eliminate it."

Helen Wills Moody (tennis star): "When a woman steps upon the tennis court for a match her opponent hardly exists for her at all—an adversary is simply the source of returned balls—and for this reason little of the enmity popularly supposed to exist between women tournament players while on the court actually exists."

What They Do in Other Lands

Points from a Traveller's Notebook

On her return from a two-years' tour abroad, Miss Grace Lofts, an Australian woman, contributed this unusual article to the "Sydney Morning Herald":

Shopping

Big London department stores provide drinking water for dogs. Fifth Avenue stores have free drinking fountains for humans.

Liverpool and Vancouver milk vendors sell books of tickets, each ticket being good for a pint or half a pint of milk. There can be no bad debts. In London I saw a coin-in-the-slot milk machine.

American salad vegetables are the best I have tasted. In some cases refrigerator cars are taken on to the farms, and the vegetables are taken straight to the refrigerator chambers of special shops. From these shops you can buy frozen, fresh green peas, in packets, ready shelled.

In Canada, when I went to get my hair cut at a hairdresser's shop. I was sent to a barber.

If you can't find a corset department in a certain Fifth Avenue store, try looking for "Figure Sculpture."

Eating

My first meal in America: Waffle, maple syrup, and sausage—eaten as one course.

Czechoslovakian soups and stews are flavoured with caraway seeds.

Bread smeared with goosefat counts as a meal in Germany.

The technique of eating black bread is to cut slices of brown and white bread the same size and eat the two slices together.

Norwegians control the sale of liquor through a passbook system.

Here is a Continental dish which is good for breakfast: Rolled oats soaked overnight, but not cooked, and served with cream or yoghourt, and, if you like, with fresh fruit, raisins, and prunes added in liberal quantities. When the oats have been soaked long enough, there is no raw taste.

Continental countries serve "open" sandwiches. They consider the appearance is spoilt if the spread is covered.

Denmark breeds horses especially for the flesh. I was told that horse beef costs as much as cow beef, and is sweeter.

In Germany I was told, "We have butter this month, but we don't know about next."

French people rarely take butter with the morning bread roll.

A Danish girl told me when she had been ill at boarding school they had looked after her wonderfully well, and had given her butter. Denmark exports butter—and uses a great deal of margarine.

I ate Czech Christmas cake, the dough for which had been plaited and then wound into a rounded shape. It tasted rather like a dryish bun. To eat it I was given a spoon and a plate—the bottom of the plate covered with honey.

Morning in a German youth hostel: Each person coming into breakfast went to the counter and said: "Heil-Hitler-a-cup-of-coffee."

Contrasts

Czech girls will get up very early Good Friday, and the boys will try to get up even earlier. It is an old custom that the boys of the village may whip any girl whom they find a lazybones in bed on that morning.

In the doors of German and Czech flats, I saw eyeholes—the full aperture about the size of a shilling, can be opened gradually like a lens. From the outside it is not possible to know whether the eyehole is being used.

I was surprised to see a picture in a German art gallery acknowledged as the gift of a Rothschild.

As a guest in a German home I received wonderful kindliness. Now, I recall something which I did not notice at the time: when I was shown a photograph of my host in uniform taken some twenty odd years ago, no one in the room was conscious of any significance in the difference of their nationality and mine.

An English guest at a reception in Stockholm to the British Advertising Convention was bitten by a mosquito. The dancing was interrupted to call for a doctor on the floor. Next day I inquired ironically how the patient was. I was answered quite seriously that the bite was still very swollen.

Language

Foreigner's English is often more vivid than our own. The Belgian Youth Hostel invites "youths, whose eager is bigger than their means" to walk and cycle in Belgium.

The Dutch fishing fleets went gay with flags and bunting when "our Princess found loff."

A German boy told me it was his "hottest wish" to come to Australia.

A Danish girl said of her favourite brother that he was a "loose man" during the depression. She meant he was a casual worker.

Another Dane told me that I should see "joyness in the eyes" of the people in Denmark. I did, although out of a population of only three and a half millions there are nearly 200,000 unemployed.

"Eh-eh; an' I had a gradely time," is a North of England phrase.

When I had Czech physical culture, I found it most disconcerting to hear the instructor saying "hup, hup" when I had to bend down.

To use public telephones in Chicago you must buy "slugs." These are metal discs made by the Yale people, and it is no good robbing the telephone box, as the slugs from the telephones in one drug store or hotel will not fit those anywhere else. Most American public telephones are in drug stores.

Try Some String Beans Cooked the Logical Way
String Beans are at their best this time of the year when green vegetables of the more delicate kind are generally out of season.
They are very nice when cooked in the proper way. By that we mean that the beans retain their original green colour, without loss of vitamin or flavour. They are crisp and full of natural juice instead of being largely soaked with tasteless water.
Sautéing is the Cantonese way of cooking these beans. It is the logical way. The dish is only a plain one, but well worth trying in view of the advantages under this method.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

FOODSTUFFS IN WAR

The introduction of the Essential Commodities Bill into the House of Commons is to be taken as nothing more than prudent provision against emergencies and by no means justifies the belief that such emergencies are any nearer now than they have been during the past few years. Indeed it may be safely hazarded that they are more distant now than they have been for a long time. Nevertheless the experiences of the last war clearly proved that one of the principal forms of preparedness is concerned with the adequate supplies of foodstuffs, forage for animals, fertilizers and petroleum. It is clear that the Government is determined that the United Kingdom shall never again run the risks of blockade similar to those which the German submarines so nearly completely established during the Great War. It is for that reason that the provisions of the Bill are described as precautionary rather than preventive, for it is clear that while stored supplies cannot prevent a blockade—only efficient naval action can do that—the storing of supplies against emergencies will serve to cover the time lag between any new development in the art of naval blockade and the devising of means wherewith to combat it. Thus it is not proposed to equip the British Isles with sufficient stores to withstand a seige, but rather to insist upon means of keeping the sea-lines open, always with the proviso that a situation might arise in which the existence of reserve supplies immediately available would be a sufficient insurance against any temporarily untoward development in certain phases of naval warfare. Sir Thomas Inskip has clearly stated the intention of the government when he said "We do not want stocks to withstand a seige, but to carry us over a period of trade disturbance, interruption in shipping and the possible destruction of stocks at ports." It is, of course, difficult to estimate what length of time would be required to overcome the disadvantages arising out of any of the dislocations which he envisages, though it is suggested that the general policy provides ample time for the restoration of the supplies of essential foodstuffs.

If there is any particular criticism to be levelled against the Government's essential foodstuffs programme as at present developed, it is to be found in the fact that the scheme contemplates the creation of a number of huge stores where such goods might be preserved against the outbreak of trouble. The danger of such a practice is that the larger such warehouses and their districts, the larger the targets offered to a possible enemy, and where under the new concept of war it is desirable to strike immediately at the civilian population behind the forces in the field or on the seas, the destruction of such stores, or the dislocation of the means of distribution might very reasonably be one of the first objectives of the enemy. It is inevitable, perhaps, that such goods as those which the Government has already admitted purchasing should be more or less centrally stored, but there is a larger aspect of the question of food storage against emergency which does not appear to have received the attention it should. If it is admitted that wholesale centralization of foodstuff reserves present attractive targets to an enemy, then the doctrine which it seems must be adopted is one of decentralization. That cannot be carried out in its entirety, but there is a large number of foodstuffs of a not immediately perishable nature which need not be centrally stored, but spread throughout the country. Thus, if legislation were passed obliging every storekeeper to maintain six months stocks of such goods in hand at all times, each city, town, village and hamlet would be more or less protected against even the destruction of central supply warehouses or railway communication. It might be argued that such a process would be exceptionally costly, and require an enormous inspection machine, that many shopkeepers might be unable to finance such a governmental requirement. It should not be beyond the powers of the government to do so and while the cost might be large it is to be doubted whether it would be of any greater dimensions than a large number of the other precautionary measures which have already been put in hand or are contemplated.

With the establishment of such stores in practically every trading street in Great Britain, for that is what it would amount to, a supply of food, which in normal times would be consumed in six months, but which under a rationing system would last considerably longer, would be in existence. It would be independent of the larger supplies already accumulated by the Government, and what is of the greater importance would be immediately available in the event of war and would delay the moment when a final call had to be made on the reserves which the Government has already accumulated. It would consequently give the fighting services all the greater margin of time in meeting the new developments which it may reasonably be expected any potential enemy will have up his sleeve. Thus in the Great War, the development of the German submarine blockade gave the British Government many an anxious moment until means of adequately dealing with it were devised. It is just that period against which the food supplies of Great Britain need to be protected by the accumulation of sufficient stores. The proposer of the suggestion under review did not contend that this should replace the scheme already prepared by the government, but might set up as a subsidiary means of carrying out the general scheme. It has about it the attractive feature that such stores would not be so vulnerable as those stored in recognized centres—and it must be remembered that no part of the British Isles is really safe from the visitation of the average bomber, though the defence might have a great deal to say about it—while their availability might be one of the best offsets to any danger of panic which is one of the chief symptoms which an air-minded enemy would seek to induce in the nation it was attacking. In considering all such questions as these it must be remembered that the needs of the fighting services must naturally come first, and in the event of any successful dislocation of means of communication, those to be served first on resumption would naturally be the fighting arms. With the adoption of such a scheme as is here reviewed the civilian population could for a very comfortable length of time—certainly until the communications system was rehabilitated—be left to look after themselves without any great drag upon the government.

Bombing Outrages

It is but natural that public opinion in Europe and the United States should have been profoundly stirred by the bombing which has recently taken place in China and Spain. The fact that both the parties, against whom indiscriminate bombing is alleged, have claimed to be aiming at military establishments does not diminish the alarm felt over the large numbers of civilians who have been killed in both countries. In Spain the Nationalists seem to have adopted the most callous attitude to the protests which have been made to them, their answer to the Republican Government being to evacuate the civilian population if they did not want it bombed. It is a very poor answer. Nor does the Japanese claim generally repeated in the commencement of their communiques, that their air-raids have been directed against military objectives, free them from the blame arising from the deaths of so many civilians in Canton and elsewhere. It is readily conceded that by reason of its situation, and the part it is playing in the defence of China against Japanese invasion, Canton is a legitimate target for the attention of Japanese bombers, but it is still required, in the interests of humanity, that the activities of the raiders should be directed against the military objectives with which Canton abounds. Either the Japanese raiders have been forced by Cantonese anti-aircraft artillery to fly at such a height that precision is impossible—and there is nothing in the reports up to the present to show that Chinese anti-aircraft defence has ever reached such excellence—or the raiding is being carried out without the slightest regard for the defenceless civilian. It can hardly be believed that either the Spanish Nationalist or the Japanese high commands can for one moment still believe in the psychological effect of the bombing of open cities as a means to achieving victory, for if anyone should know that such means are not fraught with the possibilities of success it should be the Spanish Nationalist high command. It is increasingly clear that this defiance of world opinion on the part of the Spanish Nationalists arises from the desperation of frustration, being denied that early victory which it was thought a successful drive to the Mediterranean coast would give them. It would at this juncture be rash to think that a similar inspiration is behind these repeated bombings of Canton, but the opinion is rapidly growing that the failure of the Japanese armies to gain that quick success, which was so glibly forecast at the commencement of hostilities, is assisting exasperation to defeat inherent good sense.

Kuomintang Prodigals

Too much credence should not be given to attempts being made to magnify the importance of the re-admission to the Kuomintang fold of a number of Communist and other leaders of Chinese thought of slightly unorthodox complexion, into yet another proof of the rapid bolshevization of China. Since the Kuomintang and the Communists decided to bury the hatchet in their own quarrel in order the better to wield it in the quarrel of the nation against Japan, a domestic anomaly has existed. The Kuomintang's allies were besmirched by the ancient ban of the Party, sometimes imposed as long as fourteen years ago. It might have been seen, therefore, that it could be only a matter of time before this political stigma was removed, provided the new allies proved themselves trustworthy. This they have undoubtedly done, and the action of the Kuomintang Central Supervisory Committee in restoring their old privileges follows as a natural result. Nothing in the behaviour of the Communists since the Sian rapprochement has lent support to the belief that they are trying to undermine the authority of General Chiang Kai-shek. Nor that they are planning to hand over the country, lock, stock, and barrel, to Soviet Russia. On the contrary their courage in harassing much better equipped Japanese troops seems to prove their determination to see that China remains first and foremost for the Chinese.

NATURE NOTES

Ants are no more civilized than human beings. I made this disappointing discovery the other afternoon while having tea on the verandah. Noticing a peculiar dark patch near the coping, I proceeded to investigate. The dark patch turned out to be a writhing, squirming, struggling swarm of tiny ants. Examining them under a magnifying glass, I could see the little creatures massed in a death struggle that would make the recent battle for Hsuchow on the Lung-Hai Railway look like a Sunday School picnic. There they were piled up to a depth of at least half an inch, each of the many tens of thousands of combattants busily chewing up the abdomen or thorax of another or sawing off a leg or an antenna, the while its own body was being dismembered—no quarter sought or given, no prisoners, just slaughter. The thickest part of the fight covered about eight square inches of the brick coping, but the battlefield spread much further in every direction, where could be seen groups of two, three or four ants with their jaws locked on some helpless victim from the opposite side. It was impossible, however, for me to distinguish between the two opposing armies, for all the ants were of the same species, but it was perfectly clear that they represented two different colonies, because in either direction from the scene of conflict there was a steady stream of ants passing to and from a nest in a crack in the coping. Those moving away from the battlefield all carried the remains of dead warriors in their jaws, those moving toward it seemingly eager for the fray. Evidently tension between the two colonies of ants had reached breaking point, probably as a result of border incidents, kidnappings, or even territorial aggression, and so they had taken a leaf out of humanity's book and decided to settle the dispute in the time-honoured method customary amongst men. But, as already suggested, it is very disappointing after all that we have been led to expect of the ant with its marvellously developed social system.—A. DE C. S.

Japanese Expect Early Fall of Kaifeng

Chinese Troops Reported To Be Withdrawing From Chengchow and Taking Up A New Line; Battle "Greater Than Hsuchowfu"

A VANGUARD detachment of Japanese troops pressing on Kaifeng has launched an artillery bombardment on the Honan capital and its capture is expected very soon, Japanese military reports from Peiping claimed last night. Although there are as many as 200,000 Chinese troops defending the Kaifeng area, orders from the Chinese high command have not succeeded in co-ordinating the various units to any effective degree, the Peiping messages said. Some of the Chinese troops in the Kaifeng area are retreating westward toward Chengchow, the occupation of territory to the southwest by a Japanese detachment on Saturday night having cut off their retreat in that direction, the reports said.

With Japanese at the gates of Kaifeng, Chinese troops have begun a wholesale withdrawal from Chengchow, junction of the Lunghai and Peiping-Hankow Railways, a Domei dispatch from Pohsien in western Anhwei reported yesterday. The rapid success of the Japanese encircling tactics against Kaifeng, reports said, have caused confusion among the Chinese. The fall of the Honan capital into Japanese hands was held by the Japanese military authorities to be "imminent."

The situation at Kaifeng became precarious late last week as Japanese columns striking westward from Kweiteh advanced towards the Peiping-Hankow railway along a route parallel to the Lunghai line. Ningling, Suihsien, and Kinhsien fell rapidly before the Japanese advance, as Japanese troops reportedly surrounded north of Lanfeng struck back with telling effect forcing a wholesale retreat by the Chinese.

While one Japanese column moved directly westward to cut off the two main highways leading south and southwest from Kaifeng, another unit reached Hsiangchieh, about 16 kilometers east of the Honan capital. The village fell into Japanese hands at 7 o'clock on Saturday night as the depleted Chinese garrison fled in confusion towards Kaifeng.

Tokyo Military View

Commenting on Japanese operations in the Kaifeng area, military observers in Tokyo said the Chinese forces established positions between Kaifeng and Lanfeng in an effort to check the Japanese and encircle them. For this purpose Gen. Chiang Kai-shek concentrated 20 divisions comprising more than 200,000 men with Chengchow as a centre of operations, the observers said. They pointed out that strong Chinese positions were established in Kaocheng, Kihsien, Chenliu and Lanfeng by troops under Gen. Shang Chen. —Domei.

Chinese Form New Line

Hankow, June 5.

Following the Chinese High Command's decision to form a new line of defence between Kaifeng and Chengchow, the Chinese forces which have hitherto been attacking Major-General Doihara's division north-west of Lanfeng have withdrawn to new sectors, according to Chinese reports from the front.

The Chinese military authorities here refuse to divulge details of this new line, but Chinese sources say it is manned by fresh troops in order that the forces which withdraw from the Hsuchowfu area may have a rest and be reorganized. This withdrawal is said by the Chinese to be responsible for the widespread reports, which they describe as without foundation, that the Chinese are withdrawing westward along the Lunghai, while the evacuation of banks from Chengchow is stated to be responsible for rumours that the fall of Chengchow is imminent.

The Japanese, Chinese circles assert, are still a considerable distance away from the Peiping-Hankow Railway, on which trains between Hankow and Chengchow are said to be running as usual.

Rain Holds Up Advance

Heavy downpours in east Honan are reported to be holding up the advance of the Japanese in the Lanfeng and Chihsien area, where muddy fields are said to be making the operations of mechanised units difficult.

Two Japanese detachments, Chinese reports say, appeared yesterday afternoon on the outskirts of Chengyangkwan, near the Anhwei-Honan border, northwest of Hofei. These units are said to be the vanguards of the Japanese troops now at Fengtai and Shouhsien.

The usually well-informed "Ta Kung Pao," in an article on the war situation today, says that "in the Hsuchowfu battle the Japanese concentrated their attack on one point, while the Japanese are at present launching a large-scale drive from several directions. From Anhwei, Honan and Chekiang. Japanese forces are moving westward. Their main objective is to cut the Peiping-Hankow Railway, encircle Kaifeng and Chengchow, and exert pressure upon Hupeh. Therefore, in the new campaign Kaifeng and Chengchow do not occupy an important position.

"Our chief aim is to defeat the very aims of the present Japanese drive. We have learned, and we are confident, that our highest military commander has prepared careful plans which are now being carried out. The forthcoming battle will far exceed Hsuchowfu in scale as well as scope. Benefitted by the experiences at Hsuchowfu, our troops will make a better showing in the coming struggle."

The Japanese forces in north-west Shansi are moving westward from Pinglu, having occupied Chingshuiho, near Suiyuan, on the Shansi-Shensi border, while another column from Shohsien is heading for Pienkwan, on the same border, according to Chinese reports.—Reuter.

Japanese Foreign Trade Proposals

New Minister of Finance Studies Suggestions For Improvement

Tokyo, June 5.

Recommendations designed to improve Japan's foreign trade submitted by five representative economic organizations are being given careful consideration of Mr. Seihin Ikeda, new Minister of Finance and concurrently Minister of Commerce and Industry.

The five organizations making the suggestions include the Central Council of the Exporters' Guild and the Federation of Economic Organizations.

The recommendations include the following:

1.—Unification of business relating to permits for imports and foreign exchange;
2.—Prevention of price increases on merchandise for export;
3.—Permission for fairly large imports of raw materials for promoting outgoing trade;
4.—Linking of incoming and outgoing trade so that the amount of exports figures can be filed by a central bureau which in turn will allot quotas on imports to importers' guilds;
5.—Promotion of imports of raw materials on condition that they will be used for exporting finished goods;
6.—Encouragement of transactions in samples;
7.—Promotion of imports of raw materials from North and Central China;
8.—Easing of the credit situation for industrialists and traders with limited resources;
9.—Enlargement of conditioning houses for exports;
10.—Granting of subsidies for joint facilities established by various exporters' or manufacturers' guilds.—Domei.

Bombs in Tientsin Theatres

Anti-Japanese Acts Lead To Fires

Tientsin, June 5.

The audience attending this afternoon's performance at the Capitol Theatre situated in the ex-German Concession, were badly frightened when two deafening explosions occurred at short intervals. The explosions were believed to have been caused by incendiary bombs, as the theatre immediately caught fire.

The audience hurriedly left the theatre, which was quickly cleared, as there were not many people watching the show. Apart from one or two persons who were mauled in the rush to leave the theatre, it is believed that there were no casualties.

During the interval, the floor of the cinema was found to be strewn with leaflets calling upon Chinese not to patronise the theatre, as it was said to be Japanese-owned. The Fire Brigades from the British and Japanese Concessions rushed to the scene to cope with the outbreak.

There was a similiar occurrence at the Star Cinema, in the French Concession, which is owned by the same Japanese company. The theatre was slightly damaged.—Reuter.

French Express Train Sabotaged

Stones In Switch Force Locomotive Off Track

Toulon, June 5.

The international express bound from Paris to Vintimiglia (Italy) went off the tracks this night at 2.03 a.m., just as it passed the staion of Escaillon, near Toulon.

No one was hurt and the only serious damage was sustained by the engine, all passenger coaches remaining on the tracks.

The investigation immediately opened by the authorities made it apparent that a criminal attempt took place. Large stones had been placed in a switch, in order to block the mechanism. The gendarmerie and the police are actively searching for the criminals.—Havas.

Father Sought in Girl's Death

Beaten with Strap and Immersed in Sink

New York, June 4.

An eight state alarm for the apprehension of Raymond Swincoe, Works Progress Administration labourer, was broadcast today after Dr. Mandell Jacobi, Assistant Medical Examiner, announced that Swincoe's four year old daughter, Dolores, had been murdered last night.

Indications were that the child had been beaten with a strap, causing a hemorrhage of the brain and then possibly immersed in the kitchen sink of their home in Rossville, Staten Island.

Mrs. Swincoe said she returned home and met her husband leaving the house. She said he told her he had found Dolores dead in bed.

"I am leaving town and you will never see me again," she quoted her husband as having said. She said her husband had been devoted to the child.—United Press.

Canton Again Attacked By Japanese

Relays of Planes Bomb Kwangtung Capital

Canton, June 5.

Presaging another day of terror, the air raid alarm was again sounded at 9.15 this morning. Today's air raid lasted for over an hour, and was carried out by relays of from five to six Japanese 'planes. The principal objectives, according to official Chinese reports, appeared to be the city Government offices, and Taishatou Station, although six bombs were reported to have been dropped on Wongsha Station.

The latter part of the air raid caused some worry among residents of Shameen, as bombs were actually released over the concessions.

Winghon Road was again attacked today, one bomb striking the roadway. Reuter's correspondent later saw fourteen dead, and a large number of injured persons at the spot where the bomb landed. Forty homes were demolished in the vicinity of the City Government offices. One woman remained buried under fifteen feet of debris for more than three hours, but was alive when finally extricated, although suffering from multiple injuries. The total casualties in the raid are estimated at between two and three hundred.

The Canton-Hongkong telephone line was interrupted, presumably by the bombing of the railway by Japanese 'planes.

Precautions at Shameen

Foreign residents at Shameen, as a precautionary measure, are building bamboo tiers on their roof tops, as it has been demonstrated that four or five layers of bomboo lattice work will sometimes detonate bombs, causing upward explosions. In some cases unexploded bombs have been found trapped in strong lattice work, the successive tiers breaking the force.

A Reuter Chinese messenger last night underwent a harrowing experience. When passing by his own home, delivering messages. he found the bodies of his wife, mother and daughter laid out among the dead, the only identification being scraps of paper bearing names pinned on the bodies of the victims.—Reuter.

Japanese Communique

Hits were scored by Japanese naval aircraft on the Canton Bureau of Police, the Peace Preservation Corps Headquarters, the Provincial Kuomintang and a wireless station, on Saturday, a Japanese China Seas Fleet communique issued in Shanghai yesterday morning claimed. The Peace Preservation Corps headquarters and the police buildings were blown up, the announcement asserted. The Kuomintang headquarters and the wireless station were set on fire.

The aerial bombardment, the communique assertes, was carried out in spite of an intensive anti-aircraft and machine-gun barrage. Many anti-aircraft positions were recently strengthened, the announcement said. Wongsha station, the terminuns of the Canton-Hankow railway, was again attacked from the air, many buildings in the railway yards and large sections of trackage being destroyed, the communique added.

The Canton-Kowloon Railway was also attacked, bombs being dropped at Sheklung, Sheungping and other points along the line.

Another Japanese naval air unit raided the Yushan and Lishui aerodromes in Kiangsi causing extensive damage to the runways, hangars and other structures at the fields.

Ecuador-Peru Border Incidents

U.S. State Department Gets Two Versions

Washington, June 4.

The State Department was presented today with two written versions of the incidents that occurred some days ago on the Ecuador-Peru frontier when soldiers of the two countries were involved in an armed clash.

The two reports were handed in by Ecuador's Ambassador, Colon Eloy Alfaro, and Peru's Ambassador, Manuel de Freyre y Santander, respectively.

According to the Peruvian envoy's report of the incidents, Ecuador troops crossed the frontier and marched into Peru for the first time on May 26, but they were immediately escorted back over the frontier. On June 1, the report adds, the officer in command of this group, returned in company with some 30 men. The officer in question, and two others, were then arrested.

The Peruvian version does not report any fatalities in the course of these incidents.—Havas.

Committee of Experts Studying Demands of Sudetens

No Obstacle to Agreement But Changes Necessary; Slovaks Now Wanting Autonomy

Prague, June 5.

THE proposals recently submitted by the Sudeten Germans to the Government for a solution of the minority problem in Czechoslovakia are being examined by a committee of experts. It is understood that they do not constitute, in principle, an insurmountable obstacle to an agreement, although they may have to be modified. Judicial experts representing both parties will meet after Whitsun to draft a formula acceptable to all.

Meanwhile, M. Blinka, Leader of the Slovak autonomist party, has drafted a constitution for Slovakia providing for autonomy for Slovakia but leaving to the Parliament at Prague such questions as foreign relations, war or peace, and taxes for national purposes. All other administrative matters will be dealt with by the Diet of Slovakia, sitting at Bratislava.

The draft constitution was adopted at a meeting of the party at Bratislava yesterday, at which messages of sympathy from Sudeten Germans, Poles and Hungarians were read amid applause.

The demands made by the Sudeten Germans include full equality of status between Germans and Czechs; determination and legal recognition of "the German regions" within Czechoslovakia; full autonomy for Germans in these regions, and full liberty to profess German nationality and German political philosophy.

Complete Slovak Autonomy

Bratislava, June 4.

The Congress of the Slovak Peoples Party tomorrow will demand complete Slovak autonomy from Czechoslovakia except in matters of national defence, foreign policy and finance, it was announced today.

The agitation by the Sudetens for autonomy brought about corresponding Slovak demands, adding to Prague's problems. The Slovak Party's executive committee rushed the minority plan to completion in order to be in readiness for the general party plebiscite tomorrow. Eighty thousand Slovaks, including an American delegation which brought the original "Pittsburgh Agreement," will take part in the plebiscite.

The "Pittsburgh Agreement" promised the Slovaks autonomy when Czechoslovakia was first formed. One of their principle demands, it was understood, would be equality for the Slovak tongue.

The Party received telegrams of greeting from other minorities, including the Sudetens. "Peace within the Czech Republic depends on the fulfillment of rights of the various national groups," the telegram from the Sudetens said.—United Press.

Czech Reservists Disbanded

London, June 4.

Dr. Milan Hodza, Premier of Czechoslovakia, was today quoted by the "Daily Mail's" Prague correspondent as saying that 49,000 of the 70,000 Czech reservists called to the colours on May 21 had been disbanded during the past five days.

The Premier, the London paper said, emphasized that the reservists were originally summoned only for the purpose of maintaining order during the elections.

Referring to the Sudetens, the paper quoted Dr. Hodza as saying that "Government experts are now discussing practical plans for a settlement of the Sudeten demands ....I will go so far as to say that I am optimistic as to the issue."—United Press.

Prague, June 5.

Treason Charges Dropped

Prague, June 4.

Officials of the Sudeten German Party today said they received assurances that the Government would make no attempt to bring Herr Konrad Henlein, leader of the Sudetens, to trial on charges of treason which were filed with the State's attorney by Dr. Vlastimil Klima, leader of the National League Party.

Dr. Klima demanded a trial on charges of high treason based on Herr Henlein's recent utterances which were published at an interview with Mr. Ward Price in the London "Daily Mail." The interview included the assertion by Herr Henlein that there were three alternatives involving the minority question of which one was armed conflict.

The Czechoslovak Government, meanwhile, following up an ordinance promulgated on Monday requiring all able-bodied residents from six to sixty to undergo instruction in war preparedness, issued a decree that all cinema houses must be equipped with gas masks. The gas masks must be supplied to all patrons and employees. The cinema houses must obtain the supplies of gas masks within a month, the decree said.

Local police will allot gas masks "on the basis of the seating capacities of the nation's theatres," the decree said.—United Press.

Mysterious Aeroplanes Again Reported Over Japanese Territory

Unmarked Machines Sighted Over Namidaito Island; Believed To Be Foreign Aircraft

Tokyo, June 4.

The Kagoshima Prefectual authorities were today excited over reports from Namidaito Island residents to the effect that mysterious, unmarked green aeroplanes had appeared over the island on May 31, June 1 and 2.

After hovering over the Namidaito Island, reports from the isle said, the planes always disappeared in the direction of the Ochinawa Islands. They flew at a low altitude, the Kagoshima authorities were informed, and were clearly visible. Residents of Namidaito Island said they believed the planes were foreign aircraft.

This was the second report of mysterious planes flying over the south-western islands of Japan.

Two or three planes flew over the south-western coast of Kagoshima Prefecture in the southernmost island of Kyushu on May 30, the Japanese War Department and the Western Defence Headquarters announced on that occasion.

Japanese authorities believed the planes to be Chinese bombers at that time, but the Chinese military headquarters denied that any Chinese planes had flown to Japan. Since the first and only Chinese leaflet scattering raid on May 20.

The mysterious planes appearing over south-western islands of Japan on May 30 reconnoitered for several hours over the area before leaving. The all-clear signal was given at 1 a.m. on May 31.

The planes flew over Kagoshima, Kumamoto, the south-western corner of Amakusa Island, Ike Island and Takanaben in the Miyazaki Prefecture, south-eastern coast of Kyushu Island.

Since they were not seen or heard over Yamaguchi it was believed that they had not attempted to fly over Japan proper.—United Press.

President Roosevelt's Plans Hit

Democrat Critics Fear Reprisals Possible

Washington, June 4.

Charges that a band of Administration "back-stabbers" were seeking to punish Senate Democrats opposed to President Roosevelt's policies furnished the highlight on the political front here today.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana who has opposed many of the President's bills, said he feared that recovery funds would be spent to hurt those Senators opposed to the President's programmes. The President, however, insisted he was not participating in the current primary elections on behalf of any candidates.

Administration critics pointed out, however, that the President's son and secretary, Mr. James Roosevelt, had intervened in the Florida primaries and that the Postmaster-General, Mr James A. Farley, had played an active part in the Pennsylvania primaries.

Nine Senators who opposed the President's judicial and government re-organization bills are seeking renomination in current primaries. Several of them have alleged that Mr. Henry Hopkins, Federal Emergency Relief Administrator, and other close advisers of the President had endorsed candidates opposing present Democratic Senators who voted against Roosevelt legislation.

Interest today was centred on the Iowa primaries where Mr. Hopkins has endorsed Mr. Otha D. Wearin, Democratic Representative from Iowa who is seeking the Senate nomination against Senator Guy M. Gillett, incumbant who frequently has disagreed with Administration plans.

Congress Nears Adjournment

Congress spurted down the adjournment track tonight with leaders confident that differences between the Senate and House on the Recovery and Wage-Hour Bills would be compromised in time to end the session in seven days.

Progress of leaders seeking to adjust widely differing Senate and House versions of Wage-Hour legislation encouraged the leadership to believe that the measures would not provide a major source of delay.

Controversy is expected, however, over several amendments attached by the Senate to the $3,723,000,000 appropriation for recovery spending.—United Press.

International Scene

Washington, June 4.

The declaration branding international anarchy and disorder, made by the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull yesterday, and his similar speech of Saturday before last, are regarded in some quarters here as distinct warnings.

The note sent to Tokyo with regard to American interests in China, and the recent statement by the Assistant Secretary, Mr. Sumner Welles, show America's firm will to resist all violations of treaties, the same diplomats assert.

Others see in these moves President Roosevelt's intention to lead a movement favouring the United States' taking a major role in international affairs. But they admit that general opinion is not yet sufficiently prepared for such action by the President on the eve of an electoral campaign.

Nevertheless, these quarters note that the success of the New Deal representatives in the elections in Florida, Oregon and Pennsylvania, may encourage President Roosevelt because a firm and energetic foreign policy such as Mr. Hull advocates, depends on the unity of Government partisans in internal affairs.

It is the aggravation of the economic situation, however, that is regarded as a serious handicap to the President because the public is now concentrating its attention on internal problems, leaving alone questions outside their own country. —Havas.

British Mediation in Spain

Armistice Efforts Believed Merely a Gesture; Both Sides Determined to Fight to Finish

London, June 4.

REPORTS published in European newspapers during the past two days regarding British efforts to arrange an armistice between the Spanish Republicans and Nationalists was merely a Government gesture calculated to appease public opinion, reliable quarters said today. The efforts were being taken to counteract the manifestations of popular displeasure over Britain's foreign policy, they said. A high British official on Thursday intimated candidly that the talk of British intervention in Spain should not be taken to signify any departure from the present British policy. He said the reports should not be taken too seriously or literally.

Diplomatic circles said, however, that it was known that Britain was always ready to mediate in Spain when the prospects would be favourable, but they attached little importance to recent reports which they termed propagandist announcements. —United Press.

Unconditional Surrender

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Burgos, June 5.

An official denial of suggestions that a truce in the Spanish civil war is projected was published here today. The National Government, the statement says, will accept no other end to the war than the unconditional surrender of Marxists.—Reuter.

Hendaye, June 4.

The Nationalists today asserted that they had surrounded Albocacer on three sides, threatening to entrap thousands of Republicans in the area. Bombarding the Republican fortified positions around the town with violent barrages, the Nationalists simultaneously launched columns from adjoining areas in a determined drive in the hope of isolating the town, the Nationalists said.

The fall of Torrembesora after the capture of Villa de Canes enabled the three-sided attack on Albocacer, the Nationalists claimed. Albocacer, they admitted, was strongly fortified and was defended by 30,000 Republicans who were valiantly resisting all of the Nationalists efforts at capture.

Reinforced by men, guns and planes, the Republicans earlier said that they had halted the Nationalists in their drive toward the sea coast. They checked the Republicans at the key town of Mora de Rublielos, blocking the route to Sarrion, they asserted. The Nationalists, however, said that they had partly encircled Mora de Rubielos.

When the fortified hills in the area fall, the Nationalists said they will eliminate a dangerous Republican salient on the Nationalist flank and open the way to Castellon and Valencia.—United Press.

Revolt Among Nationalists Reported

Paris, June 5.

A sensational report of trouble in Andalusia, in southern Spain, is contained in a telegram from the Gibraltar correspondent of the Spanish Press Agency received in London. It speaks of rumours of an abortive revolt due to opposition to the presence of German and Italian military advisers, and alleges that a number of Spanish officers under General Quiepo de Llano, one of the Nationalist leaders, "fearing that Italians are getting into the saddle and with a view to maintaining their position after the war," recently held a number of secret meetings.

The officers are alleged to have argued at these meetings that even a Red Spain was better than an Italian Spain.

Many officers, the report says, have been arrested on the orders of the authorities at Burgos, but it is not yet known whether steps have been taken against General de Llano. All guards along the Gibraltar frontier are said to have been reinforced, and nobody is able to leave Spain without special credentials.

Reports of unrest in Seville were brought to Gibraltar last evening by Nationalist army officers visiting the Rock to buy medical supplies.

Many arrests are stated to have been made at La Linea, in Cadiz. Andalusia was formerly a province of Spain but has been divided since 1833 into eight provinces—Almena, Cadiz, Cordova, Granada, Jaen, Huelva, Malaga and Seville.—Reuter.

Two attempted raids on Valencia by Nationalist seaplanes were made, but the machines were in each case driven off before they could start bombing.

Three Nationalist planes yesterday landed in error in a Republican aerodrome east of Madrid. One took off immediately, but the others remained owing to lack of petrol. The pilots, a lieutenant and a sergeant, said to be Italians, were arrested.

OBITUARY

Mr. A. Yakovleff

The sad news has been received in Shanghai of the sudden death on May 12 in Paris of the celebrated Russian painter, Mr. Alexander Yakovleff, at the age of 50. The deceased was very well known in the Far East where he started his brilliant artistic career.

Graduating with honours from the St. Petersburg Arts Academy and entitled to continue his studies abroad at the Academy's expense, unlike other laureats, who usually went to France and Italy, the late Mr. Yakovleff chose the opposite direction and went to China where his talent found the most magnificent field for further self development. His Chinese and Mongolian studies in charcoal and red crayon attracted wide attention with their precision and marvellous technique. Many old residents of China are still in possession of his portraits and drawings. From China, Mr. Yakovleff went to Europe where his talent received the widest recognition.

Twice he was invited by M. Citroen, the automobile magnate, to travel with the Citroen Motorcar Expeditions in the distant parts of the world: La Croisiere Jaune—across Asia (1925) and La Croisiere Noire—across Africa (1931-1932). From both expeditions Mr. Yakovleff brought back splendid collections of native types and landscapes met on the way. These collections brought the artist international fame, his exhibitions in Paris and London meeting with tremendous success. Later, Mr. Yakovleff went to the U.S.A. as a professor of painting. The ailment of which he suffered and which resulted in his death was discovered only recently. Cancer was suspected and an operation was urgently performed but it did not save the life of the talented artist.

WEDDING

Sarly-Louzier

The marriage of M. R. Sarly, Chief of the Garde Municipale of the French Police, and of Mlle. H. Louzier, daughter of M. and Mme. L. Louzier, was celebrated in the French Concession on Saturday when, after the civil ceremony in the French Consulate-General, a church service in the Eglise St. Pierre was followed by a large reception in the French Police Club, when over 700 guests attended.

The marriage, incidentally, was the first in Shanghai to be performed since the putting into effect of the new French law (of January 22, 1938) under which the wife is given a status equal to that of the husband and may enter into legal engagements or contracts without having to secure the consent of her husband.

The civil ceremony in the French Consulate was conducted by M. P. Augé, Consul-General; M. Verdier, director-general of the French Municipal Services, acted as witness for the bride, and Major L. Fabre, head of the French Police, acted for the groom.

In the evening, a huge reception was held in the French Police Club, Rue Victor Emmanuel III, when over 700 friends of the bride and groom attended. The reception room itself was decorated with over three hundred baskets of arum and lilies, while appropriate music was rendered by an excellent orchestra.

The guests, in addition to leading members of the French community and of the French naval, army, police and civil forces now in Shanghai, included Col. F. R. W. Hornby, Commandant of the S.V.C.; Mr. E. Long; and Assistant Commissioners G. W. Gilbert and T. Robertson, of the Shanghai Municipal Police.

London, June 5.

An agreement has been reached between Great Britain and the United States on the size and gunpower of future battleships, states the Naval Correspondent of the "Sunday Times," who understands that an announcement on the subject will be made in the House of Commons next week in the course of a general statement on battleship building.

British and American experts are said to have agreed that future capital ships must mount guns of 16-inch calibre, for which American designers require a displacement of 45,000 tons and British designers 42,000 tons.

Conferences have been in progress between British and American naval experts ever since the two nations invoked the Escalator Clause of the London Naval Treaty.—Reuter.

Neo-Pagan Movement in Germany

Pope Addresses Pilgrims From Congress

Castel Gandolfo, June 5.

A reference to what was believed to be the anti-Catholic neo-pagan movement in Germany was made by the Pope in an address yesterday to groups of pilgrims, including Germans and Hungarians, returning from the Eucharistic Congress at Budapest.

The Budapest Congress, His Holiness said, had been the object of pious envy for Catholics throughout the world, except for a few unfortunate exceptions, "unfortunate because it is exceptional for anyone to renounce the light of the sun and condemn himself to the darkness of shadows."—Reuter.

Is Your Leave Overdue ?

Circumstances sometimes compel a postponement of home leave and should this happen to you the state of your health should be your first concern, for with good health you can carry on long after you are due for a change of climate.

The first essential of good health is good blood, for all the nerves and tissues of the body derive their nourishment from the blood. Unfortunately, the eastern climate makes considerable demands upon the blood stream, and it is therefore advisable periodically to rehabilitate the blood by means of a tonic, of which there is none to surpass Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, devised by an eminent British physician

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually create new rich red blood, and have proved a reliable and highly effective remedy for ailments arising from a depleted blood stream such as indigestion, insomnia, neurasthenia, rheumatism, nervous debility, and the aches and pains peculiar to women. Start building up your health to-day with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills; you will be pleased to find how soon you feel better. They are equally good for men and women. Obtainable from chemists everywhere.

Storms Sweep S.W. American States

Serious Floods Inundate Kansas

Kansas City, Mo., June 4.

Tornadoes, rain, thunder storms and floods lashed the south-western states today, causing damage estimated in hundreds of thousands of dollars and threatening the lives of thousands in the path of the storms and floods.

More than twenty persons were injured in south-western Oklahoma and northern Texas where tornadoes and thunder storms created havoc with crops and damaged numerous buildings.

Kansas suffered from floods which inundated thousands of acres of rich wheat land and forced hundreds of persons to flee to higher ground where they were being housed temporarily in schools and churches. Salina, Kansas, was threatened with inundation as a roaring flood rolled along the Smokey Hill River Valley, blocking highways and severely damaging crops. No estimate could be made of the damage to crops which obviously was large.

Red Cross workers at Salinas prepared for a major emergency as residents worked furiously to erect dykes in the eastern residential section of the city.

The Red Cross was collecting large supplies of foods and medicines to care for refugees expected to flee to Salinas from areas already submerged. Special lodgings also were prepared for the refugees, but relief workers feared facilities in Salinas might be inadequate if the city itself was hard hit by the approaching flood.—United Press.

Japan Faces Economic Threat In Excess War Industries

Over-Development Strain Apparent After Truce; No Financial Exhaustion Now Noticeable

San Francisco, June 2.

CHINA'S continued resistance to the Japanese invasion has forced Japan to build up a war-time industrial plant that will constitute her greatest danger of economic collapse, according to the Institute of Pacific Relations. Regardless of whether she wins or loses the war, this menace will have to be faced by Japan when the moment comes for this great industrial plant to be demobilized and shifted to a peace time basis, the Institute said.

The situation will be the same as that which existed in most of the countries that participated in the World War when, after the armistice was signed, they found themselves loaded up with vast war material industries, keyed to the highest point of production, which it then became necessary to return to a peace-time basis. The situation for many of these nations was saved only by the vast reconstruction loans made by the United States, of which little has ever been paid back.

The size of the wartime industrial plant which Japanese are now building up is indicated by the amount of new capital that has been invested in Japan in 1937, and especially the amount invested in the five-industries that have most to do with the making of war-time materials, the Institute said.

Japanese Investments

The Bank of Japan has estimated the amount of new capital invested in Japan during 1937 at Y.3,577,000,000, or an increase of 79 per cent. over that of 1936. Of this 79 per cent. increase, 53 per cent. was diverted into the war-time industries.

The distribution of this percentage between the five leading industries of that nature and the abnormal increase of each of these as caused by the demand for war supplies is as follows:

Metals, 264 per cent. increase over 1936; mining, 147 per cent. increase; machinery, 341 per cent. increase; shipbuilding, 294 per cent. increase; chemicals, 198 per cent. increase.

The two possibilities which Japan will have for avoiding economic collapse when the moment comes for the demobilization of this wartime industrial plant, the Institute states, will be the first, the finding of new peaceable outlets for her wartime industries and secondly, continuing to arm for new military adventures.

Financing Difficulties

As regards the first, this would consist of providing capital goods for the reconstruction and development of China. This, however, presents a certain obstacle for the production and sale of capital goods requires large and long term credits as against the quick return on consumer goods which has been Japan's speciality in the past. The Institute doubts that either Japan or China could undertake this long term financing.

The only other alternative, the Institute said, would be for Japan to continue the production of war-time material either for new adventures of her own or for possible sale to other nations that are now in the armaments race.

Resources Not Exhausted

From a financial point of view, the Institute finds that there is no indication that Japan is reaching the limit of her resources, in spite of the development the war has taken.

At the time of the Lukouchiao incident, which started the war, an appropriation of Y.10,000,000 was considered sufficient to regulate the affair. Since that time, however, more than Y.7,394,000,000 (U.S.$2,144,260,000) have been budgeted for the invasion. Military and naval expenses already appropriated amount to 30 per cent. of the national income. The cost of the war now is about Y.404,000,000 per month.

Nevertheless, the Institute reports, Japanese banks are still able to absorb the bond issues made to cover this and there is no indication that any serious financial strain has as yet been reached.—United Press.

Second Victim of Lyceum Killing

Chinese Dies in Hospital In Early Morning; Police Search for Assassin

Struck in the shoulder by the same bullet which killed a colleague of his, Yu Shih-chieh, aged 28, died at St. Marie's Hospital at 7.30 a.m. yesterday before the French Police could question him.

The shooting took place in the Lyceum Theatre during the Chinese theatrical show on Saturday afternoon. The first victim, Cheng Anchuen, died on the spot.

Incidentally the two men were employed by the same firm, the International Business Machine Corporation, 220 Szechuen Road. Both occupied aisle seats on the ground floor, the first being seated in the second row, and the second, in the fifth row and immediately behind him.

As both rose to their feet with others to applaud the performance, a single shot rang out which struck the first Chinese in the neck and the second in the shoulder. In the ensuing commotion, the murderer escaped.

No exact identity of the gunman could be obtained from those who attended the show. Conflicting were also the reports concerning the spot from which the fatal shot was fired. Some said the shot had been fired from the orchestra pit. Others said it came from the same row in which the first victim was.

French Police working on the case believe the murder to be devoid of political affiliations. The condition of the second victim was such that the police found it inadvisable to question him the same evening. It took a turn for the worse and the man died in the early morning.

The performance was staged by Chinese women's organizations for charity relief. The Russian Light Opera Company presented "Katja the Dancer" in the same theatre the same night.

No Prime Minister in the Empire has held office for such a long period as Lord Craigavon, who has just won another electoral victory in Ireland. Although his manner is stolid he has proved his courage on many occasions. In the Boer War he raised and led his own troop of horse. During the Irish negotiations, when life was cheap, he once walked into the camp of the enemy to meet Mr. de Valera, and he went unarmed. On another occasion his own guards fired on him as his car entered the grounds of his home, Stormont Castle. They thought the car contained assassins—a narrow escape!

Hope Abandoned For Boy

Father Believes Son Dead; Search by G-men and Party Of Farmers Futile

Princeton, Fla., June 4.

Mr. James B. Cash, father of five-year-old Jimmy Cash who was kidnapped from here four days ago, told the press tonight he believed the kidnappers had killed his son. "I have given up all hope of finding my son alive," he said.

Mr. Cash abandoned hope of seeing his young son alive again after an armed posse of more than 2,500 enraged farmers, directed by Federal "G-Men", had searched the fringes of the Florida Everglades without finding a trace of the boy's kidnappers.

Mr. E. G. Connelly, Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, continued to direct the hunt for the kidnappers tonight. The Federal agents abandoned hope of finding the boy alive several days ago. The kidnappers were believed to have killed the boy and thrown his body into the Everglades in an attempt to escape detection.

F.B.I. men feared it might take at least another week to find the body of the boy which they believed was buried in the tangled Everglades.

Mr. Cash paid $10,000 in ransom to the kidnappers the day after the boy's disappearance. The kidnappers promised to telephone Mr. Cash at noon of the following day to tell him where his son could be found. The telephone call never was received, however. Mr. Cash is a wealthy oil dealer.—United Press.

Levine Death a Mystery

Ossining, New York, June 4.

How Peter Levine, kidnapped New Rochelle, N. Y. School boy, was killed remained as great a mystery as ever today following an examination of his vital organs at Grasslands Hospital.

Dr. Amos O. Squire, Westchester County Medical Examiner, said in his report to the District Attorney, Mr. Walter A. Ferris, that all the tests were "negative."

Hospital officials said the boy, whose headless body was washed ashore from Long Island Sound at New Rochelle last Sunday night, might have been strangled or drowned, might have been killed with a blow or a bullet in the head, or might have bled to death.—United Press.

Robbers' Narrow Escape

A gang of robbers narrowly escaped capture in a Chinese food shop in Purdon Road at about 9 o'clock last night, when police arrived on the scene about five minutes after the entry of the gang. Sensing something amiss, the men, four in number, one being armed, fled with about $30 worth of valuables and cash. No shots were exchanged. Earlier in the evening, another robbery was reported at No. 3, Lane 396, off Elgin Road. Four men, three of whom were armed, took part in the hold-up, escaping with a loot valued at between $300 and $400.

Gang Commandeers Motor Car

Vehicle Found Abandoned An Hour Later

After having been in the hands of an armed gang for about an hour, the motor car bearing the Settlement licence #30 was found abandoned in Chungking Road and Taku Road at about 11 o'clock last night. The police were investigating late last night what the gang had done with the car during that hour.

The motor car was parked in Yu Ya Ching Road, near the New World amusement resort, shortly before 10 p.m., when three men, two of whom were armed, held up the chauffeur. The car was then driven towards Nanking Road, where it was stopped by the traffic. Seizing the chance, the chauffeur left the car and reported the crime to the police. But the gang fled with the vehicle which was found abandoned an hour later.

Get your temperature down and you get relief at once. The sure, safe, effective method is 'ASPRO.' Take it in the earlier stages of a Cold and get quick relief. 'ASPRO' will arrest developments—it will get right at the seat of trouble. If taken according to the directions in the packet, 'ASPRO' will smash up a cold in one night. Furthermore, you take no risks with 'ASPRO' because it does not harm the heart or stomach, and there are no injurious after effects. SMASH COLDS & 'FLU in one night with 'ASPRO'

'ASPRO' ENDS HEADACHES, COLDS AND 'FLU.

"Somerset," 12 John Street, GOULBURN N.S.W., 7th May, 1935.

Dear Sirs,

Like many others I suffered from severe Headaches until I found how good 'ASPRO' tablets really were. As for Colds or 'Flu, I never suffer from them at all now, as when I feel feverish—aching in the limbs—weak or sniffly, I take three 'ASPRO' tablets and a hot lemon drink on retiring at night and seldom have to take the second dose, which speaks well for the beneficient properties of 'ASPRO.'

Yours faithfully,

Amateurs Sink U.S.S. Tulsa

Bernard Homers with One Base Loaded to Start Things; Final Score of Ten-Five

WITH a big attack in the second, third and fourth innings in which a total of eight runs were scored, the Shanghai Amateurs displayed power yesterday at the Race Course in their third friendly baseball encounter against the U.S.S. Tulsa whom the civilians trounced by a convincing margin of 10-5. Showing vast improvement, the Amateurs gave a crowd of about 500 spectators a fairly good impression. At least, the civilians are going to begin the forthcoming City League campaign with equal odds against the Marine squads.

Harry Bernard's home run in the second inning gave the Amateurs a safe lead. Willie Ward and Lawler had made hits before of the clouting rightfielder but it was Bernard who put Ivy Riddick's men in winning vein, for after this stanza, the Amateurs added another three runs in the third and two more in the fourth.

The three-inning spurt was started by Ward who banged into right field; Lawler drove a three-bagger into deep centre for Ward to score the opening run. Then Bernard strode up to the plate. After two strikes, the young outfielder smacked high and wide. The ball sailed between left and centre field sending Lawler home, besides himself.

Sailors Rally

Intent upon staging a comeback, the sailors commenced the third inning in earnest. Mazoway singled to right field. Day, the next batter, was struck out by Huebner. Koslosky bingled. but Mazoway was thrown out at second.

Miles came up the plate. He whacked a liner to Lawler in the left garden. The latter muffed which allowed Koslosky to reach third base. Just when the Tulsa were within striking distance, Deegan stopped Wood's grounder and smartly threw the runner out at first, ending the Tulsa threat.

The Amateurs' infielders had their share in the second half of the second canto. Riley singled to centre. Deegan sacrificed Riley to second. Huebner hit the ball between first and second base. Wood made a wild throw which scored Riley. Ward was fanned but Lawler again hit a long drive to centre, scoring Huebner. Bernard followed suit. The defending centrefielder misjudged the flight and Huebner crossed the plate, marking the end of a second three-run spree. O'Brien flied out to retire the side.

Huebner Relaxes

Peterson, Costello and Satain went out without touching first base. Kabbert opened the Amateurs fourth session but was whiffed. Lamneck grounded and then stole second on Riley's turn at bat. The latter banged out a scorching drive. Both advanced.

Having gained an eight-run lead, Huebner let down his pressure and the Tulsa nine chalked up their first run through Mazoway who was aided by Day's hit. Although the winners netted two more runs, one in each of the sixth and seventh innings, play became listless. In the eight Manager Riddick inserted several new candidates who were Schoberg for Lamneck, Stiles for Riley, Krause for Deegan, Brown for Bernard, Carbonnell for Ward and Adams for Huebner.

Bernard Blasts Out Home Run

Giants Drop Fifth In a Row

Hubbell Hammered Out of Box by Red Bats; Foxx Homers Twice

New York, June 4.

Not even the mound wizardry of Carl Hubbell could snap the losing streak of the New York Giants. That was demonstrated with appalling ferocity today by the Cincinnati Reds when they defeated the Terrymen by 11-2, making 18 hits in the process.

Hubbell was made the target of a heavy barrage of blows, lasting just two and one-third innings before being driven to the respite of the showers.

Mel Ott, 27-year-old veteran, averted a shutout for the Giants by banging his eleventh home run of the season into the stands, but Ival Goodman and Ernie Lombardi countered with homers for the Reds to more than offset the circuit blow by Ott.

Extra-inning Battle

A stirring battle was witnessed at Ebbet's Field in Brooklyn when the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Flatbush Fumblers by 4-3 in an extra-inning battle.

Home runs played a leading role in an 8-5 victory for the Boston Bees over the St. Louis Cardinals. Jack Fletcher and Vince DiMaggio pounded out four-ply blows for the Bees in an eighth inning rally productive of three runs, while the Cards pulled an identical stunt in their half of the frame on homers by Johnny Padgett and Joe Medwick.

A glut of runs in the first inning of the game enabled the Chicago Cubs to vanquish the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-1, closing the gap between the Bruins and Giants to a mere half-game and placing the Cubs in a very menacing position insofar as the Giants are concerned.

Joe Marty's homer with the bases full in the first frame was chiefly responsible for the Cubs' triumph.

Heavy Hitting

In the American League, the Philadelphia Athletics downed the Chicago White Sox on a five run rally in the sixth inning. The big guns of the Macks were hard at work, Cherokee Bob Johnson connecting for a brace of home runs and Bill Werber for one.

The Cleveland Indians also joined in the general policy of heavy scoring in one frame when they showed eight runs across in the fourth inning to beat the Washing Senators, 11-4. Kenny Keltner continued his mad home run pace with another circuit blow, and is now generally acclaimed as the greatest rookie discovery of the year.

Jimmy Foxx was a veritable siege gun of offense as the Boston Red Sox whipped the Detroit Tigers, 5-3. All five of the Beantown runs were made in the first inning, four of them being driven across the plate on two home runs and a single by Foxx.

Cricket Club Defeat Police By Four Wickets

Advantage Taken of Drying Wicket to Dismiss Law Guardians for 84 Runs in Short Order

TAKING full advantage of the drying wicket A. C. Sinclair, leading a representative Cricket Club side in yesterday's fixture on the home pitch against a strong Police team, varied his attack in such a manner that the opposing side was out in a hundred minutes for the low total of 84 runs. When the Club's turn at the crease came round the turf was already unfit for the Police bowlers, with the result that such men as Booth, Williams and Deane had little difficulty in mastering their deliveries.

Booth avenged his recent failure against the same team with a classic 50 which included six fours. Batting with confidence he showed glimpses of his old form with hard drives and square cuts past cover, but the ease with which he played was partly due to the disappointing Police attack. Williams showed power in his 47, being particularly forceful in his back-play past mid-off and cover. and Deane's innings was noteworthy for its singles, the right way of scoring for an opening bat.

Taking twenty minutes to hang up double figures the Police initial pair, J. E. Fairbairn and H. A. Sevenoaks, started off extremely cautiously to Lingard at the Recs and Read at the Pavilion end. Sevenoaks, who will be remembered as a former Interport opening bat, and who has only just recovered from severe injuries to his legs suffered late last year, could not settle down at all, and after running a few singles was well-taken by Sinclair at wicket off Read. W. Read could not do more than break his duck, and a turner from Lingard returned him some five minutes later.

Things Look Black

Things looked black for the guardians of the law when Booth came on from the top end, and it was not long before the latter induced Fairbairn to an indiscretion for Read to collect with ease. Barton was the only member who faced the varied attack with a straight bat, and it was mainly through his patience that a procession was averted. The score stood at only 31 after an hour's play, with Booth and Graham, a slow bowler, tying the opposition in knots with accurate and deceptive deliveries. With the help of Edmunds, who played an unusually quiet innings for his nine runs, Barton was able to carry the score past the half-century mark before being left alone, only to be disappointed by his skipper when the latter was caught out of his ground by Sinclair.

In making his useful contribution at the right time Woodley displayed more confidence than when he last appeared at the crease against the same bowlers, and the value of his assistance was enlarged by Barton who was heartened into hitting Wood to the tapes twice. However, the latter broke through the defence a few minutes later, and with Abbott's dismissal the innings closed.

Disappointing Attack

The Police attack was distinctly disappointing, neither Boddy nor Baker showing any length, and but for an agile and keen field, runs might have come faster. Their skipper rang his changes frequently, and as a result Read was unable to stop one from Abbott to break the partnership up after a good start of 64 runs. Laird was with Deane for another twenty runs, playing carefully till the Police total had been passed, when he fell to Abbott.

When Booth joined the opening bat the main point of the game was decided, but that did not prevent the two Stragglers from producing some very fine cricket. In twenty minutes the pair knocked up over sixty runs by clever running and hard hitting, with Booth the faster scorer of the two. Time and again he reached the tapes with hard square cuts, and whatever change the Police skipper made in the attack made little difference to the pace.

On reaching his half-century Booth failed to connect and was out to Peasgood. The new-comer, Williams, then proceeded to carry on the high rate of scoring with an exhibition of masterly timing and good placing. In contrast to Booth's play Williams relies particularly on his back strokes, putting unusual power into what usually is a defensive shot. A few minutes before six o'clock Baker was able to entice him to one which the Club captain, fielding as a substitute, caught, and the match ended with four wickets untaken.

10,000 See Britain Win Walker Cup

Final Score of 7½ to 4½ Costs America Her First St. Andrews Defeat

St Andrews, June 5.

The Duke of Kent was among 10,000 golfing enthusiasts who saw Great Britain yesterday break the monotony of American successes and win the Walker Cup for the first time since the inception of the competition in 1922.

With a lead of 2-1 in the foursomes, Britain took five of the eight singles to emerge triumphant by 7½ matches to 4½.

The feature of yesterday's play was a magnificent round of 67 by Marvin Ward, of America, who thus beat Bobby Jones amateur course record and equalled Willie Nolan's professional record.

Hector Thomson, who defeated the American amateur champion, Johnny Goodman, went round in 68 for the second best card of the day.

Ball Hangs on Lip of Cup

Cecil Ewing, who replaced Bentley, justified his selection with a win over Billows. One down at the end of the first 18 holes, the burly Irishman putting well, soon overcame the deficit, Billows rallied later unavailingly. At the 35th Billows had to hole a five-yard putt to save the game, but the ball hung on the lip of the hole. Ewing then holed out from four feet for match.

Kyle, who was very much off his game in the foursomes, was the player who settled the issue by defeating Fred Haas.

He played a very steady game, and was lucky at the 29th hole, where Haas, stymied, knocked in the Scot's ball.

Complete results of the competition were:—

Singles

Yates (America), British amateur champion, beat Bruen by 2 and 1 after being 3 up in the morning;

Thomson (Britain) beat Goodman by 6 and 4 after being six up in the morning;

Fischer (America) beat Crawley by 3 and 2 after being four down at the 18th;

Stowe (Britain) beat Kocsis by 2 and 1 after being one at the end of the first round;

Ward (America) beat Pennink by 12 and 11 after being nine up in the morning;

Ewing (Britain) beat Billows by one up after being one down at the 18th;

Peters (Britain) beat Reynolds Smith by 9 and 8 after being three up in the morning;

Kyle (Britain) beat Haas by 5 and 4 after being one up in the morning.

Foursomes

Johnny Fischer and Charles Kocsis (America) halved with H. B. Bentley and James Bruen after being three up at the end of the first 18 holes;

Gordon Peters and Hector Thomson (Britain) beat Johnny Goodman and Marvin Ward by 4 and 2 after being two up in the morning.

Charles Yates and Raymond Billows (America) beat A. T. Kyle and Charles Stowe by 3 and 2 after being five up in the morning;

Leonard Crawley and Frank Pennink (Britain) beat Reynolds Smith and Fred Haas by 2 and 1 after being three up in the morning.—Reuter.

Tail-Wagger Chats

Royal Tail-Waggers

A few weeks ago the Duke of Kent lost his 13-year-old Alsatian, Dushka, which was Tail-Wagger R.28. A letter of sympathy with His Royal Highness was sent by the Club and I now have the pleasure of announcing that the Chow Chow puppy bought to replace the departed favourite has also been enrolled as a member, his number being R.118.

There is a good deal of difference in appearance and temperament between these two breeds, but I know that the Duke has been very much devoted to Lady Milford Haven's Chow Chow, Micha, and it is possible that the pleasing ways of this dog induced him to go to its breeder, Mrs. V. A. M. Mannooch, for a puppy for himself. The new puppy is three months old, which is a good age for it to find a new home, and it should have every opportunity of becoming attached to its royal master, who intends to make it his own personal favourite. I understand, also, that this puppy is a fine example of its kind, as we should expect of one coming from Mrs. Mannooch's kennels. His sire, Ch. Choonam Hung Kwong, is a perfectly magnificent dog that was made the best of all exhibits at Mr. Cruft's Jubilee Show. He has that wonderful leonine appearance that makes chows at their best so attractive, for they are more lion-like than any dog that I know. Choonam Hung Kwong has won innumerable prizes and any owners of his stock may well be proud of their possession.

Chow Chows have many delightful qualities of disposition; some of them, I admit, are uncertain in their temper, but as a rule if they are left alone they are not fierce or aggressive. The majority are, one would not say friendly, but, at any rate, harmless. They become very devoted to their own particular family and seem to ignore other people. I often used to meet one at the house of a friend, where he welcomed me with courtesy, but if I passed him on one of his lonely walks and spoke to him by name, he would have nothing to say to me.

They have a sense of locality that is remarkable, and I know of no other dogs that are so capable of looking after themselves in traffic. I have seen one cross a busy London street just as cleverly as any human being could do, waiting until there was a lull in the traffic and then trotting across quite calmly without any hurry. One day he was pulled up between two streams of vehicles, but instead of making a wild dash, he stayed perfectly still until the suitable moment for proceeding arrived.

Yacht Racing on Whangpoo River

Sport Spoiled Somewhat by Lack of Wind; Ingomar Outruns Opposition

The lack of wind did not deter yachtsmen yesterday, nor did the threatening outlook of weather conditions in the morning, but despite the fairly enthusiastic response when four "A" class and eight "C" class essayed their set courses, most skippers felt the calm patches rather spoilt their sport, this being especially noticeable in "C" class which took four hours to complete the morning's course, and then only four out of the eight finished.

"A" class went out over the famous course around Lismore and completed the distance satisfactorily, thereby testifying that the wind downriver was better than that upstream. Ingomar sailed by C. B. Blaikie and D. McPherson showed her heels the others and outpaced them on both races, winning the First Ordinary Race by a half hour's margin from Viking (W. J. Richmond), while she was able to finish eight minutes ahead of Rover (H. G. Fabian) in the afternoon's race returning from Woosung.

In "C" class, the smaller boats had a most dismal time and, trying for four hours to accomplish a course from the flagship around marks in the vicinity, they had to contend with the ebb and the very weak wind to return, with the result that most drifted up to and around their marks and found it most difficult to get back. Captain Baird in Orion won the morning's race beating John Berents in Eileen, with J. H. Ford third in Shimurali, while in the afternoon's contest, J. Berents won in Eileen followed by Captain Baird in Orion and J. C. Boldero sailed Bridget into third place.

Strong Ebb Tide

The bigger boats set out in the morning with the ebb running strongly and despite the small attendance of only four boats, there was enthusiasm shown at the start. Ella went away to the best advantage on the Shanghai side of the river and was soon ahead, Rover being the next best to get away followed down to leeward by Ingomar with Viking badly left.

It was a reach closehauled down to the Point Island and from here the wind veered to come from the West off the Shanghai bank. Ella lost her lead to Rover, the latter hauling up to the wind and shaking off Ingomar's efforts to get to windward of her. The latter, however, went through her lee eventually and soon sailed out ahead to a long advantage which she increased as the race went on.

The wind headed off Battery creek and beating was necessary from here onwards to Pheasant Point. Ingomar never relinquished her advantage and went on to win by a handsome margin, coming back from Lismore inshore and thereby minimizing the effect of the last of the ebb.

Rover retained her position slightly ahead of Viking with Ella falling back, but in the Astrea Channel Viking went ahead, only to lose her advantage again. The wind veered to the East and came up strongly after falling away to a dead calm for about half an hour.

With this new lease of life, the boats roared down to Woosung, and Viking was again able to pass Rover to take second place leading in the latter by a narrow margin. Ella got the best of the slant in the wind and came up strongly towards the end of the race, only being some 15 minutes behind Viking and Rover.

Yankee of the "C" class fleet followed "A" class out to Woosung, sailed by Miss D. Hawkings single-handed, while Valerie, a notable absentee in the miscellaneous class race met the bigger boats at Woosung.

Return Race

The return race saw Ella and Ingomar getting the best of the start, the latter soon establishing a good lead which she held all the way home. Ella held up with the leaders to the middle of the Astrea channel and here Rover, coming up from behind on the Shanghai side of the river passed both Viking and Ella to make up rapidly on Ingomar, which however she failed to catch. At Kiaojao the wind, which had proved quite good, failed it was a drift from there home, the final phases of the contest being most disappointing.

"C" class turned out eight boats for the morning's race, and despite the interest at the start the falling away of the wind in the harbour reaches, made the contest most unsatisfactory, four boats failing to finish. Captain Baird sailed Orion into a good win, with John Berents bringing Eileen in second. Several of the boats had to anchor during the race owing to adverse tides and the lack of wind to propel them. In the afternoon, Berents scored a good victory on Eileen with Orion second.

The following were the results;

1st race:—Orion (captain Baird), Eileen (J. Berents), Shimuarali (J. H. Ford), Daphne (J. H. Riddel), Sun Lee (K. F. Piper), Bridget (Captain C. E. Howard-Vyse), Zuleika (J. C. Claverings), Catharine (H. R. O. Edmonds). The last four boats did not finish.

2nd race:—Eileen (J. Berents), Orion (Captain Baird), Bridget (J. C. Boldero), Catharine (J. C. Walters), Daphne (C. C. Todd), Lady Anne (Lt. P. H. M. May), Sun Lee (K. F. Piper), Shimurali (J. H. Ford). The last four boats failed to finish.

Favourite Loses in Belmont Stakes

New York, June 5.

Mrs. W. P. Stewart's Pasteurised won the Belmont Stakes here yesterday, defeating the favourite, Mr. William Dupont, Jr.'s Dauber, winner of the Preakness Stakes and runner-up in the Kentucky Derby, by half a length.

Mr. Townsend Martin's Cravat, second in the Preakness Stakes, was third. There were only six starters. The winner started at 8-1.

After the race the jockey of Dauber lodged an objection, which, however, was not sustained.—Reuter.

Alfred Perry Captures Pro Golf Title

Yorkshire Evening News Tournament

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Cobble Hall, Leeds, June 5.

Alfred Perry, one of the leading British professionals, won the Yorkshire Evening £750 Professional Golf Tournament here yesterday, defeating Vernon Greenhalgh, of Prestwick, Manchester, in the 36-hole final by eight up and six to play.

Perry was four up at the end of the 18th hole.

By getting into the final of the tournament, in which many Ryder Cup players competed, Greenhalgh gave the greatest performance in his career.—Reuter.

Hungarian Tennis Win

Paris, June 4.

The Hungarian pair of E. Gabory and S. Szigetti progressed in the French International Tennis Championships doubles tournament today as they defeated Abe, Japan, and W. Robertson, United States, by 4-6, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4. The contest was close throughout, and it was chiefly the stamina and perseverance of the Hungarians that brought them victory.—Havas.

U.S. Derby Winner Fit

Inglewood, Calif. June 5.

Lawrin, the Kentucky Derby winner, was at Hollywood Park in top shape today after a trip across the country.

Trainer Ben Jones indicated the big bay colt will race four times in the season opening here Friday.

The top spot will be against Dauber, the horse he beat in the Kentucky Derby in the $50,000 American championship race June 29.—United Press.

Montague Out of Open

Hollywood, June 4.

John Montague, former Hollywood "mystery man" and ex-convict, was en route today to watch, not play, in the National Golf Open at Denver. The Hollywood golf wizard did not enter the sectional playoff. Playing in the Open, however, is George Von Elm, his partner in a forthcoming barnstorming tour.—United Press

Portuguese Coy. Shoot

The Portuguese Coy., S.V.C., held its 32nd Annual Rifle Meeting last Sunday. The practices comprised the whole of the Classification Course and Skirmishing, the highest possible score being 160 points; the weather was fine but the bright glare of the sun and the intense heat during the latter part of the morning made it rather uncomfortable for the 58 competitors, particularly for the skirmishing.

The standard of shooting was rather poor compared with previous years' results, as only 7 men qualified as Marksmen, viz.:—

The Meeting was efficiently conducted by the Musketry Board of the Company, Lieut. Fernando O. R. Xavier (President) supervising, assisted by Pl. Sgt. Alvaro Marques (Vice-President) and by Cpl. Alberto Carneiro (Hon. Sect. & Treas.).

The Messing Sgt. of the Company arranged for each competitor to have a glass of coffee and a couple of buns, issue of which was completed within 5½ minutes!

The Annual Lewis Gun Meeting of the Company, which was to have been held immediately after the conclusion of the Rifle Meeting, had to be postponed owing to lack of time to complete it before noon.

Bombay Cotton Market

Bombay, June 4.

The continuous pressure of Broach contracts was a disturbing factor in the Bombay cotton market during the past week, and, although a recovery ensued, the market subsequently relapsed into weakness on long liquidation and the complete absence of free business.

Meanwhile, any steadiness brings out the immediate urge to replace contracts by sold-out longs.

The spot market was very quiet with some enquiry from Lancashire and the Continent, but the volume of business was negligible.

There were wide spread rains throughout most of the Peninsula, but the Monsoon proper is not expected to break until mid-month.—Reuter.

Brazil Cotton Exports

Rio de Janeiro, June 4.

The Brazilian authorities, it was announced today, have stopped exports of cotton to Germany which have previously been made under the "Askimark" system, under which 63,000 tons of cotton annually was exportable from Brazil to Germany.

This action, it is understood, originated from reports that Germany was re-exporting cotton at high gold prices.

Observers point out that the immediate problem is for Brazil to find another market if the German purchases cease, while it is anticipated that stronger efforts will be made to increase sales of Brazilian cotton to Britain and Japan.—Reuter.

U.S. Commodities

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, June 4.

Trading in the cotton market was early moderately active and prices advanced on Bombay cables, Liverpool and Bombay buying, week-end covering and trade, local and Wall Street buying with July liquidation well taken by trade houses. Finally, the market closed steady, with quotations ranging from 3 to 5 points up compared with the previous final levels.

In the Chicago Wheat Pit numerous complaints of black rust and flood losses in important areas in the south-west induced covering. A winter wheat crop estimate of only 750,000,000 bushels, the firmness of Wall Street and bullish Washington news bolstered sentiment. At the final bell, gains of 1 1/2 to 1 5/8 cents were recorded.

Berlin Bourse Report

Berlin, June 4.

Share prices underwent an improvement during the week, chiefly because sales on emigrant account were smaller and hence the market less overloaded than had been the case for some weeks past. Furthermore, the low level that share prices had reached, tempted many genuine investors to make the contemplated purchases to which they were all the more disposed in view of numerous dividend payments received.

Buying towards the weekend in some cases actually led to a shortage of the available stock so that prices in such instances rose smartly. Among the stimulating influences during the week was the publication of the annual report of the greatest German industrial undertaking, namely German Dye Trusts whose trading had been so successful that to the general surprise an eight per cent. dividend was distributed as against seven per cent. last year.

Among the other shares to show improvement were Daimler-Benz Automobiles, Auto-Union and Bemberg Rayon all of which had published good reports and declared satisfactory dividends.

Fixed interest securities attracted little business during the week and movements—mostly small—were erratic in trend. Reichs Old Liquidation Loan ended a shade lower, mainly because the lot drawing had deranged the market momentarily. Gold mortgage bonds were in smart demand but industrial bonds showed market disposition to sag although the best standard shares were firm.

The following were the quotations of some of the leading German shares on May 30 and June 4 respectively:

New York Stocks

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, June 4.

Stock prices on Wall Street today finished with gains of about 3 points, with the sweeping Administration victory over the passage of the Pump Priming Bill through the Senate tending to revive inflationary sentiment. Dow-Jones Summary

By Courtesy of Swan, Culbertson & Fritz

The improvement witnessed on the Stock Exchange today was attributed to week-end short-covering and indications that Congress is nearing an adjournment. In some quarters the Senate's passage of the Recovery Programme is construed as inflationary, against which traders were buying gold minings as a hedge. Similar activity was witnessed on the Toronto Exchange. The market was encouraged by the fact that the British Government may buy 500 American planes, while the Government's efforts to thaw the utility and capital structures were also helpful. However, the velocity of money passing continues to be low, reflecting the depression.

London Money Market

London, June 4.

With the recent increased supplies augmented by the usual June 1 dividend and interest payments, which totalled over £40,000,000, borrowers in the London money market during the past week frequently obtained loans at very cheap rates.

Discount brokers were again satisfied with the Treasury tender, as, in addition to obtaining a good supply of bills in the face of increased competition, they also saw a further move of the average allotments rate in their favour.—Reuter.

Sugar Quota Reduction

Washington, June 4.

Sugar quotas would be reduced in accordance with the revised estimate of domestic consumption, which is now placed at 6,780,000 short tons, compared with the December estimate of 6,861,000 short tons, according to an announcement made today by Mr. Henry Wallace, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.—Reuter.

French Army Review for British Royalty

Splendid Display Planned For Their Majesties

Paris, June 4.

On the occasion of the visit of the King and Queen of Great Britain a great military review led by General Billotte will take place before the town hall at Versailles. It is stated that about 50,000 infantry troops and also a number of mechanized units will take part.

During the review, a display will be given by the French Air Force.

The President and Mme. Lebrun will subsequently entertain the King and Queen at a luncheon in the Gallery of Mirrors in Versailles Palace.

On July 1, the King and Queen will leave Paris for Villers-Bretonneux where a monument to Australian soldiers who fell in the Great War will be unveiled. The President, M. Albert Lebrun, will also be present at this ceremony at the conclusion of which the King and Queen will travel to Calais where they will embark for Dover.—Trans-Ocean.

Rome Press Explains Rupture of Talks

France Expected to Fill Gap in Spanish Issue

Rome, June 4.

Referring to the speech made in Milan yesterday by Count Galeazzo Ciano, the Foreign Minister, the press here this morning declared that the Franco-Italian negotiations were interrupted because they were too equivocal and prevented the French Government from coming to a clear understanding with Rome.

"L'Avenire" declared that France should close the Pyrenean borders, while according to "La Tribuna," "what separates the two countries is that Italy and France are on opposite sides of the fence and as the French Government does nothing to fill the abyss it would be vain to hope for a resumption of the negotiations.

"La Tribuna" added that the question of appointing a French Ambassador to Italy is a secondary matter.—Havas.

Major E. J. Nathan, chief manager of the Kailan Mining Administration, left for England.

"Deficiency of information in Japanese English-language newspapers is completed very successfully by an English newspaper in Kobe The Japan Chronicle . . on its pages can often be found criticisms of the political and economic actions of the Japanese Government and various other information which gives the opportunity to observe and to analyse the Japanese economic situation. In addition to the usual material obtainable from all the Japanese English-language newspapers. The Japan Chronicle gives a very detailed and comprehensive review of the foreign trade of Japan. It regularly prints statistics pertaining to Japanese exports and the state of the home market."—Extracts from U.S.S.R. Chamber of Commerce Journal.
